I would like to start by saying thank you so much for the care packages my team and I received during our deployment here to Afghanistan. There is nothing that compares to receiving support from folks back home. Our tour here has come to an end, and I would like for our upcoming team to receive the same support that we received. My replacement, Russell Huth, is willing and more than happy to receive the care packages. He is now at the same address I was:

Thank you again for all your support. I am hoping to thank you and your team personally when I get home.
